

Scotland's Finest Woods Awards SFWA Schools and Early Years Awards

Guidance Notes

If you have undertaken any project or programme involving trees, woods, forestry and related industries you are eligible to apply. Outdoor & Woodland Learning Scotland love seeing the variety of ways that educators in Scotland engage learners with trees, woods and forestry. A series of case studies have been created showing previous winners and runners up in order to assist with the application process. These are available through the OWL Scotland website.

Please remember that judging of applications can only be based upon information included in this application form (including links to websites/ social media etc). We encourage you to include all relevant and important information to this application form.

The following criteria will be used by the judges and can be used as a guide to structure answers for this application.

Judging Criteria

- 1. To what extent have sessions increased the use of woodlands and related industries for first hand learning?
2. To what extent have sessions increased the opportunity for learners to understand the importance of trees and forests for conservation of the environment?
- 3. To what extent has this work increased the opportunities for learners to understand the link between trees and everyday wood products?
4. To what extent do sessions increase the opportunities for learners to improve their emotional and physical wellbeing?
- 5. To what extent do sessions relate to the curriculum?

Community Project Involvement

- 6. To what extent has the whole educational setting/ school community been involved in the project?
7. To what extent has the 'Learners Voice' influenced the purpose and outcome of the sessions.
- 8. To what extent has the wider community been involved in the project?

Sustainability

9. How does the programme have a lasting impact on the environmental/social and/or economic aspects of the setting (i.e. its overall sustainability)?
- 10. How does the setting hope to build on these in the future?
